PORTER & COATES'

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

The Wits and Beaux of Society

AND

The Queens of Society.

By GRACE and PHILIP WHARTON.

Printed from Entirely NEW Stereotype Plates.

WITS AND BEAUX OF SOCIETY. New library edition. Beautifully illustrated with 20 photogravure portraits by Gebbie & Husson Co. Two volumes, small 8vo, tastefully bound in cloth extra, half calf, gilt top.

QUEENS OF SOCIETY. New library edition. Beautifully illustrated with 18 photogravure portraits by Gebbie & Husson Co. Two volumes, small 8vo, tastefully bound in cloth extra, half calf, gilt top.

Large-paper edition of "Wits and Beaux of Society" and "Queens of Society," limited to 250 copies, very carefully printed on elegant paper, with 38 portraits on India paper. In 4 vols., 8vo, gilt top, tastefully bound.

The book trade is respectfully requested not to place their orders for illustrated editions of

until they have seen PORTER & COATES' edition of that world-renowned work, for the following reasons:

1st. It is printed from entirely new stereotype plates.

2d. The photographs are from the famous houses of Allinari and Broge; of Florence, and some of them were taken expressly for us.

3d. The photogravures are made by Messrs. A. W. Elson & Co., of Boston, who made all those in Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s edition of the "Marble Faun," and they say that they are the finest reproductions of the kind ever published in America.

4th. It is printed in the best manner and on the best paper made expressly for us, and in every way the work will be a superb specimen of American book manufacture.

PORTER & COATES, Publishers, Philadelphia.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE presents, in the JUNE NUMBER, the first instalment of an entirely new and supremely droll serial story,

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have made arrangements to follow up their edition of Julius Wolff's great story, "The Saltmaster of Lüneburg" (Der Salzmeister) by the other prose novels of this popular writer. The next to be published will be "The Robber Count" (Der Raubgraf), which has been called for in Germany to the extent of upwards of 21,000 copies. W. Henry and Elizabeth R. Winglow are the translators.

FLEMING H. REVELL announces for immediate publication the first volume of the Sermons of Rev. John McNeill, the "Scottish Spurgeon," who is now moving such great masses in the very heart of London. Mr. Revell will also have ready during June "Hints on Bible Study," a symposium by Dr. Clifford, Professors Drummond and Elmslie, and Revs. Horton, Meyer, Waller, Moule, Berry, and Dawson; "The Gospel and Modern Substitutes," by Rev. A. Scott Mattheson; and "Christian Living," a devotional volume, by Rev. F. B. Meyer.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have just ready "From Handel to Hallé," by Dr. Louis Engel, who has had the good fortune to obtain for his interesting book of musical biographies, autobiographies by Prof. Huxley and Mr. Hubert Herkomer. The volume contains carefully executed engravings of Handel, Gluck, Beethoven, Sir Arthur Sullivan, Mme. Albani, Adelina Patti, Prof. Huxley, the juvenile prodigies, Hofmann and Hegner, and others. They have also just ready a new edition of Arthur Young's "Tour in Ireland," which formed two volumes in Bohn's Standard Library; a third volume of Ibsen's "Prose Dramas," containing "Lady Inger of Ostrat," "The Vikings at Helgeland," and "The Pretender," and, an illustrated volume of "Egyptian Sketches," by Jeremiah Lynch, State Senator of California.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish June 7 Henry James' new novel, "The Tragic Muse," which is said to have "in a marked degree those qualities of thought, characterization, and style which have won for Mr. James a foremost place among living novelists;" "Cities of Our Faith," selections from the writings and sermons of Rev. Dr. Samuel Lunt Caldwell, late President of Vassar College, with a biographical sketch by Oakman S. Stearns, D.D.; "Responsive Readings," taken from "The American Book of Church Services," by Rev. Edward Hungerford; "Heat as a Form of Energy," by R. H. Thurston, the third volume of The Riverside Science Series; "Girls and Women," by E. Chester in the Riverside Library for Young People; Ellen Olney Kirk's "A Daughter of Eve" and Sarah Orne Jewett's "A Marsh Island" in the Riverside Paper Series.

HARPER & BROS. will publish immediately a volume by the indomitable explorer, Du Chaillu, entitled "Adventures in the Great Forest of Equatorial Africa and the Country of the Dwarfs." Du Chaillu claims to be the first white man who penetrated the vast and unbroken African forest extending two or three degrees on each side of the equator, inhabited sparsely by man and the characteristic animals of Africa, but densely by great numbers of venomous serpents, formidable species of ants, and strange varieties of apes, of which the gorilla, which Du Chaillu calls the King of the African forest, is chief. Thirty-five years ago, in 1855, Du Chaillu left New York upon his first voyage, returning in 1859. He travelled alone, making friends with the tribes, and passing peacefully from one to the other. He discovered the gorillas, the cannibals, the dwarfs, and the mountains. Upon his return his story was assailed with bitter incredulity; but Sir Richard Owen and Sir Robert Murchison, with other men of the highest authority in science, befriended him, and now Mr. Stanley and other travellers confirm his narrative. This volume is a condensed and popular narrative of that expedition, abundantly illustrated and accompanied by a number of maps.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; in the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p. in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

- Gloire et Malheur* was the title under which the story was first published in 1830. The name was changed in 1842 to La Maison du Chat-qui-pelote. The awkwardness of the title in English ("The House of the Cat-playing-ball") lead the translator to use the original name given by Balzac. In addition to this remarkable story the volume contains the following, viz.: "Colonel Chabert," "The atheist's mass," "La Grande Bretèche," "The purse," and "La Grenadière."
- Baylies, Edwin. The rules of pleading under the code, and the practice relating to pleading, with an appendix of forms. Rochester, N. Y., Williamson Law-Book Co., 1890. c. 31+534 p. O. shp., $6.

- This novel has been running the past year in the Atlantic Monthly. It is in a large measure historical, dealing with a most interesting and picturesque epoch—the old Knickerbocker life in New York, when the present great metropolis was a little Dutch town, surrounded by palisades. Names well known in New York history appear, and a vivid presentation is made of the political conflicts of the period. The Begum is an East Indian married to a prominent New Yorker of the time. She and her daughter are strong factors in the story.
- Century dictionary (The): an encyclopedic lexicon of the English language; prepared under the superintendence of W: Dwight Whitney. In 6 v. V. 3. N. Y., The Century Co., [1890.] c. 4+2423-3556 p. il. Q. full shp., subs., $15.
- Clark, F: Thickstun. In the valley of Havilah. N. Y., Frank F. Lovell & Co., [1890.] c. '90. 282 p. D. (American author's ser., no. 27.) pap., 50 c.
- Havilah is used by the author to designate a part of the hilly country of California, where gold is found. The characters of his story are mostly illiterate people, but each with some redeeming trait. The hero is a diamond in the rough.
- Clarke, R: F. University education in Ireland: a retrospect and a prospect. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1890. 8+70 p. 8°, pap., 35 c.

Papers on birds and related subjects by one of the best authorities on birds in western New York. They are entitled: Spring arrival of the birds; A day's outing in search of the arbutus; Ventriloquial and imitative power of birds; Wrens; Trees and trees; Intelligence in birds; A day in an old orchard; Autumn visitors; Nesting habits of birds; Maple sugar making; Danger on an early extinction of song birds; A search for a Whippoorwill's nest; A summer drive in the Lake country; Ornithological nomenclature.
- Fiske, Amos K. Midnight talks at the club. N. Y., Fords, Howard & Hulbert, 1890. c. 6+297 p. S. cl., $1.
These conversations take place between four typical characters who meet Saturday nights in a quiet corner of the Asphodel Club. Opposite views are presented of various topics. The party discourse on temperance and prohibition; they find the churchly shepherds neglecting their true sheep; they talk about Sunday observance, and then at large about religion. They branch off to political immorality, to superstition and worship, with objections to making a fetch of the Sacred Scriptures, and then take up the question of the Irish-Americans and their divers elements of good and evil as citizens, etc., etc.
- Fleming, Geraldine. Slaves of the ring: a story of circus life. N. Y., J: W. Lovell Co., [1890.] c. '85. 2+233 p. D. (American novelists' ser., no. 4.) pap., 25 c.

Stolen America is the island of Bermuda, which the author describes with artistic pen, pointing out the defenceless condition of much of the eastern sea-coast of the United States. Two pairs of lovers, a French villain of polished manners, and numberless interesting people work out a plot of some complication. Any one contemplating a visit to Bermuda will find this a rare guide to its beauties.

For the guidance and use of recruiting officers who are not physicians, in the examination of applicants for enlistment into the United States army. Tripler's "Manual," written for the use of medical officers, contains much that is useless or incomprehensible to the non-professional man.
- Gréville, Henry, [pseud. for Mme. Alice Durand.] Aline; from the French, by W: G. Temple. N. Y., Appleton, 1890. c. 230 p. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 52.) cl., 75 c.; pap., 50 c.
Aline is just twelve, when her father, an unsuccessful poet and painter, dies, leaving her mother quite destitute in the city of Paris. An old friend hears of a position as governess in a rich Russian family, which the widow accepts after placing her daughter with an old school friend. The descriptions of French and Russian systems of education are interesting. Aline first loves unwisely, but after many French matrimonial schemes all ends for the best.

- Lyon, Sidney, (pseud.) For a mess of pottage. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1890. c. 2-414 p. D. cl., $1.25.
Said to be written by a Southern lady of prominence. The heroine is a strange mixture of good and evil and of coquetry and folly. The evil she works in several men's lives, and her final folly, in casting away her birth-right "for a mess of pottage," is the theme. The scenes and characters are taken from American life. The dialogue throughout is quite bright.

The leading purpose of the essay is to present "an ideal of a society in a dynamic condition as counterpart to the ideal of a static state." "I shall feel satisfied," the author says, "if I succeed in showing that such an ideal corresponds to the leading features of American industrial conditions and is in complete harmony with the best development of our industrial resources. Whether we shall have a static or dynamic society is really the centre of the discussion about the tariff."

"The present monograph presents a pleasant picture of one of the purest, most single-minded, sincerest, and most sagacious and Christian statesmen the annals of the Republic can show. In his long career—as member of the Continental Congress, President of Congress, member of the Constitutional Convention, Foreign Secretary, Chief Justice of the United States, Governor of New York, Minister to Spain, Special Envoy to England—no breath of suspicion or doubt attached to his fame. . . . Mr. Pellew has profited considerably by the Stevens mss. and the work of M. Doniol, which deals elaborately with the relations between Paris and Madrid during the years 1778 and 1779. The 'Jay mss.' also have been carefully examined." New York Tribune.

The brief reign of Marie Louise as Empress of the French and as the wife of Napoleon is recorded in this volume. A succession of chapters tells of her early years, the preliminaries of the wedding, the betrothal, the religious difficulty, the wedding at Vienna, the civil wedding, the honeymoon, the birth of the King of Rome, etc. An introduction carries forward the life of Marie Louise from the downfall of Napoleon till her own death, and also gives many interesting details relative to the life and death of Napoleon's son, the King of Rome.

The poor district of the city of Liverpool is the home of the handsome nineteen year old "girl of the people." She sells newspapers. Upon the death of her Calvinistic mother she takes her twin brothers of seven under her protection and openly opposes her drunken father in his plans for marrying her to a low companion of his revels. A well-told story brightened by glimpses of the best to be found in human nature.

White, Eliza Orne. Miss Brooks: a story. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1890. c. 2-283 p. D. cl., $1.

Miss White is the author of "A Browning courtship." She offers in the present work a charming character novel of a typical Boston girl. "Miss Brooks" has her limitations, but within them she is a most admirable character, and certainly most admirably drawn. Her love for Boston and her own family, her belief that life is not worth living outside of Boston, all play a prominent part in her engagement to a man of brains and wealth, who does not share her prejudices. The story is unusually fresh and clever.

NOTES ON CATALOGUES.

OTTO HARRASSOWITZ, the scholarly antiquarian bookseller of Leipzig, has recently issued two catalogues of permanent interest and value to the book trade. No. 164 contains the titles of 1616 works on literary history, library economy, and bibliography in every language; No. 165 contains a list of 2956 works on German and foreign literature, from the sixteenth century to the present. In nearly every case the original price is given besides Mr. Harrassowitz's selling price, as well as important bibliographical points. These catalogues, which deserve a permanent place in the bookseller's library, may be obtained gratis upon application to Mr. Harrassowitz, Queerstrasse, 14, Leipzig.

Catalogues of New and Second-hand Books.—Cassino Book Co., 1374 Broadway, N. Y., Miscellaneous books. (No. 1, 565 titles, 8°).—S. H. Chadbourne, 57 Warren St., Roxbury, Mass., Americana, etc. (No. 7, 1111 titles, 8°).—Jarroll & Sons, Norwich, Eng., East Anglican Book Circular, 2d ser., No. 3, miscellaneous books. (664 titles, 12°).—Lang & Co., 709 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo., Americana, etc. (No. 3, 385 titles, 12°).—Jos. McDonough, 53 State St., Albany, N. Y., Chiefly Americana, history, travels, etc. (No. 66, 619 titles, 8°).—David Nutt, London, Eng., Philology of European languages and history of their literature, French, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese. (No. 17, 791 titles, 12°).—Henry Stevens & Son, 30 Great Russell St., London, Eng., Americana. (No. 19, 861 titles, 12°).

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MAY 31, 1890.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter, whether for the reading-matter columns or our advertising pages, should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctness in the final entry.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE STATE AND THE PUBLISHING BUSINESS AGAIN.

We print elsewhere the text of two measures for regulating the manufacture and supply of text-books for the public schools of New York, which have been recently presented to the New York Legislature (more for the purpose of putting on record everything that may even distantly relate to the book trade, than because we attach any particular importance to them). Mr. Coons' bill we had already referred to editorially in our issue for March 1. The principal object of this measure seems to provide a berth for three officers with a salary of from two to three thousand dollars per year, and possible "perquisites." It is on the face of it a thinly disguised "job" which the honest representatives of taxpayers will no doubt squash when it comes up for a vote.

As to the second bill presented to the Senate by Mr. McNaughton and in the Assembly by Mr. Courtney, this is in the line of measures that have been adopted in other States to the disgust and heavy cost of the taxpayer. This journal has time and again given expression to its opinion on this question, and to this day no developments have been made to convince an unprejudiced observer that a corporation can serve its constituents as well or as economically in the matter of manufacturing text-books as it is now being done by individual enterprise. The proof can easily be gotten at. Indiana, the latest victim to this utopian idea, finds itself spending almost as much again on school-books under its paternal system as it did under the old régime. California, which has been its own school-book publisher for seven years with disastrous results, is contemplating legislation to rid itself of its incubus.

The McNaughton-Courtney bill instead of being as has been stated "a corrupt job, the sole object of which is the financial profit of the 'School-book Trust'" is one of the measures designed to break up the practices that have prevailed for a generation in the city of Rochester, by which frequent changes were made, series lengthened out, and the books and supplies furnished, limited without regard to price or merit of competing houses, to those controlled by the local agent of one school-book publishing firm. To break down this influence, to defeat particularly obnoxious commissioners with determined efforts, several laws affecting educational matters were proposed by a number of leading citizens of Rochester, headed by the honored philanthropist Henry Lamb. Among the measures presented only the uniform text-book bill received general approbation and was finally ordered to be introduced as a law by a public meeting to which the work of the committee was submitted. So much for the motive which is responsible for the presentation of the bill at Albany. We hardly think that the taxpayers of the State of New York will be willing to saddle themselves with an experiment involving so many risks as the manufacture of any article carries with it, in order that one city may rid itself of political corruption. That might prove too heroic a remedy and in the end might prove worse than the disease.

We are pleased to note that The Christian Advocate in its issue for May 22 admits the "impropriety and immorality" of an advertisement printed in its issue of May 8. The advertisement was made up by some one (presumably the cat) in the subscription department of Hunt & Eaton from a catch-penny circular gotten up by the Historical Publishing Co., of Philadelphia, who are pushing a hack-work, entitled "Heroes of the Dark Continent," made up of the writings of African explorers including Stanley's, with the equivocal assertion that it "is equally as authentic and as much Mr. Stanley's 'own book' as the one" Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons, are about to publish under the title of "In Darkest Africa." The most startling announcement in the advertisement printed over Messrs. Hunt & Eaton's signature, was this:

"Do not be frightened by the unjust and untrue statements which appear in papers, and which are supplied and paid for by rival publishers. Remember that you can arrange with an editor for just as strong notices of your book, if you care to pay for them, because the business of an editor is to make money for his paper, and as long as you pay him for what you desire inserted, he will treat you just as kindly as he will any one else."

Of course, all who made any allowance for the probable state of affairs might have guessed that such a statement was never made with the knowledge of the agents of the Methodist Book Concern or of the editor of the Christian Advocate. Dr. Buckley, in calling attention to the unfortunate occurrence, distinctly states that "at no time in the long history of the house has a dollar ever been offered to any paper to commend its publications except in pay for advertisements displayed as such."

We would suggest that the agents of the Methodist Book Concern point out to that "employé in the Subscription Department" the error of his way, especially as this is not the first time he has gotten his employers into trouble. If it should happen to be the "office cat," they might consult Matt. xviii., 6, for a remedy.

EVERY friend of justice lives in hope that the present Congress will not adjourn until the stain of the defeat of the copyright measure is wiped out. The parliamentary position of the bill is such that the motion to reconsider may at the proper time be called up, and the House may have another opportunity to act upon the measure. When it does come up, we are confident that it will pass. Since the action of the House the public press, without regard to party differences and prejudices, has risen almost as one man to protest—a course that cannot be without effect on the members who voted against the measure. The New York Times, which has been doing excellent work in the fight for international copyright, in its issues for May 19 and 20, printed several columns of extracts from its exchanges voicing the indignation of the press. The expressions of sympathy which have been collected would, if they could all be printed, fill nearly a page of the Times. The House, therefore, cannot do better than to consider and reverse its action.

THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY, by some magical means, has succeeded in accomplishing what few would have believed possible three weeks ago—the control of the public school books of Harper & Brothers, and of the plant of The Standard Publishing Co. and D. D. Merrill & Co. The latter two, while not absolutely formidable rivals of the American Book Co., were nevertheless in a position to cause it considerable trouble in the West and Southwest, particularly in Iowa, Minnesota, and Arkansas. For this reason it was expected that they would hold out in the fight they had already begun against the new corporation. Their surrender and the purchase of the Harper books now practically puts all the public school book business into the hands of the American Book Company, and places in it a position of grave responsibility. Whether it will use it for the benefit of the public, the schools, and the trade, time alone can decide.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL ON THE DEFEAT OF THE COPYRIGHT BILL.

From Kate Field's Washington.

"ELMWOOD, CAMBRIDGE, MASS., May 15, 1890.

"DEAR MISS FIELD: You ask me to send you a few lines on the recent defeat of the International Copyright Bill in Congress.

"I have had too long an experience of the providential thickness of the human skull, as well as of the eventual success of all reasonable reforms, to be discouraged by the temporary defeat of any measure which I believe to be sound. I say 'providential' because the world is thereby saved many a rash experiment in specious legislation. Were it otherwise, the Huon's horn of inconsiderate enthusiasm would lead us a pretty dance among the briars. Unfortunately there is, as usual, an exception to this general rule, for the sutures of the political cranium are so loosely knit as to leave a crevice through which considerations of ephemeral expediency find a too easy entrance. Such considerations, it should always be remembered, are most liable to disastrous recoil.

"I grant that our hope has been long-drawn-out, but since material for it (as for every hope that has a moral care) has been constantly supplied, it has never become too attenuated to bear the strain put upon it. It is seventy-one years since Irving wrote, 'You observe that the public complain of the price of my work; this is the disadvantage of coming in competition with republished English works for which the publishers have not to pay anything to the authors. If the American public wish to have a literature of their own, they must consent to pay for the support of authors.'

"(And why not, I may add, if we consent to pay Senator Jones for the support of a silver mine?)

"It is fifty years since Irving wrote: 'How much this growing literature may be retarded by the present state of our Copyright Law, I had recently an instance in the cavalier treatment of a work of merit written by an American who had not yet established a commanding name in the literary market. I undertook as a friend to dispose of it for him, but found it impossible to get an offer from any of our principal publishers. They even declined to publish it at the author's cost, alleging that it was not worth their while to trouble themselves about native works of doubtful success, while they could pick and choose among the successful works daily poured out by the British press, for which they had nothing to pay for copyright.'

"This was in 1840, and in the same year Mr. Clay's bill was defeated. We have been fighting for the same cause with the same weapons ever since, and apparently with the same result.

"But for all that we have made progress. We have secured public discussion, and a righteous cause which has done that has got the weather gauge of its adversary. I am too old to be persuaded by any appearances, however specious, that Truth has lost or can lose a whit of that divine quality which gives her immortal advantage over Error. The adversary has cunningly entrenched himself in the argument that there can be no such thing as property in an idea, and I grant that this is a fallacy of which it is hard to disabuse the minds of otherwise intelligent men. But it is in the form given to an idea by a man of genius, and in this only, that we assert a right of property to have been created. The founders of our republic tacitly admitted this right when they classed the law of copyright with that of patents. I have known very honest men who denied the public expediency of such a right in both cases, but I cannot understand either the logic or the probity of those who admit the one and deny the other. This right is visible and palpable in a machine, invisible and impalpable in a book, and for this very reason the law should be more assiduous to protect it in the latter case, as being the weaker.

"But, after all, every species of property is the artificial creature of law, and the true question is whether, if such property in books did not exist, it would be wise in our own interest to create it. The inventions of Whitney, of Fulton, and of Morse added enormously to the wealth of the nation. Have not those of Edwards and Irving, and Cooper and Emerson, and Hawthorne and Longfellow (to speak only of the dead) added also to that wealth, and in a nobler kind? Or is not moral credit, then, worth something, too? Is it not, indeed, the foundation on which financial credit is built and most securely rests?

"The foreign right to property of this description stands on precisely the same footing with the domestic right, and the moral wrong of stealing either is equally great. But literary property is at a disadvantage because it is not open, gross, and palpable, and, therefore, the wrongful appropriation of it touches the public conscience more faintly. In ordinary cases it is the thief, but in this case the thing stolen that is invisible. To steal is no doubt more immediately profitable than acquisition by the more tedious methods of honesty, but is apt to prove more costly in the long run. How costly our own experiment in larceny has been those only know who have studied the rise and progress of our literature, which has been forced to grow as virtue is said to do—in spite of the weight laid upon it.

"But even though this particular form of dishonesty against which we are contending were to be always and everywhere commercially profitable, I think that the American people are so honest that they may be made to see that a profit allowed to be legitimate by us alone among civilized nations—a profit, too, which goes wholly into the pockets of a few unscrupulous men—must have something queer about it, something which even a country so rich as ours cannot afford.

"I have lived to see more than one successful appeal from the unreason of the people's representatives to the reason of the people themselves. I am, therefore, not to be tired with waiting. It is wearisome to ourselves and to others also to go on repeating the arguments we have been using for these forty years, and which to us seem so self-evident, but I think it is true that no reformer has ever gained his end who had not first made himself an intolerable bore to the vast majority of his kind. I have done my share in my time to help forward such triumphs of tediousness, but you will not thank me for essaying it again in the sprightly columns of your paper. Faithfully yours,

"J. R. LOWELL."

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES writing to the same journal says: "Dear Miss Field, I have nothing to add to my recorded opinion of the dishonesty of stealing the products of the labor of the soft-handed sons of toil. I cannot see that a callous on the palm confers any better claim to fair treatment than a furrow in the forehead and an aching in the brain."

A WESTERN PUBLISHER ON THE "RIGHT OF COPYRIGHT."

From the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.

As a believer in the right of protection, I want to join my thanks with others to Messrs. Butterworth and Caldwell for their votes in favor of a just copyright bill.

It is not a question of cheap books, but a question of right or wrong; it is a question whether the brain shall have protection in its work the world over when used in book-making as well as in machine-making. Edison, in the work of his brain, has, by the protection of our patent laws, the income and use of his patents the world over; but Longfellow, in the work of his brain, can have protection only in this country.

The copyright law claims equality for brain work of all kinds, and piracy, even if it gives us "cheap books," cannot be justified.

Our tariff is an attempt to build up home industries: let us give the same protection to our authors as we do to our machine workers; let us encourage an English literature with the hope of an adequate financial return. Let us say to our authors, "The work of your brains is your property, dispose of it as it is to your interest, but as your property it shall have equal protection under the law the world over."

ANOTHER INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT BILL.

THE House Committee on Patents, on May 22, ordered a favorable report on a bill introduced by Mr. Simonds, of Connecticut, which is identical with the International Copyright bill already acted upon adversely by the House, with the addition of a new section, which provides that it shall be of effect only where reciprocal advantages are granted by foreign countries to American authors.

It is rumored, says The Critic, that the following resolution is to be introduced into the House of Representatives:

WHEREAS, It has been decided by the vote on the Copyright Bill that it is just, expedient, and necessary that the people of the United States should have cheap foreign literature without regard to the alleged rights of the foreign or the American author; and,

WHEREAS, Under the present system, foreign text-books may be acquired more cheaply than American; therefore Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby recommends to the Legislatures of the different States the substitution in the public schools of foreign text-books in place of those by American authors, to the end that American children may early acquire a just disregard for property in general, and a sturdy disrespect for American institutions.

THE OLD SLEUTH CASE.—As we go to press we learn that on a new trial of the suit of George Munro vs. Street & Smith, before Judge O'Brien of the Supreme Court, on May 7, judgment was declared in favor of defendants and complaint dismissed. In another suit bearing upon the "Old Sleuth" case, before Judge Shipman, in the U. S. Circuit Court, May 5, the judgment was: "I do not find any infringement, and the bill should be dismissed."

NEW YORK STATE SCHOOL-BOOK MATTERS.

A BILL TO CREATE A "TEXT-BOOK COMMISSION."

THE following bill [Assembly No. 474] was introduced by Mr. A. B. Coons, of Schoharie, February 11, read once and referred to the Committee on Public Education:

AN ACT to establish a Board of Commissioners to be known as the text-book commission and to define its powers and duties.

SECTION 1. Within thirty days after the passage of this act the Governor shall appoint three commissioners, to be known as "text-book commissioners," who shall hold office for the term of one, two, and three years.

SEC. 2. When first appointed their terms of office to be determined by lot; after appointment and each year thereafter the Governor shall appoint one commissioner to serve for the term of three years or until his successor shall have been appointed and has qualified.

SEC. 3. Said commissioners shall publish or cause to be published, in their discretion, such text-books when so designated, at the expense of the State, and shall furnish the same to the several districts of the State at ten per cent. above the actual cost of printing same.

SEC. 4. Said books shall be delivered to the trustee or trustees of any school district upon the receipt of the county treasurer of his county, showing that an amount sufficient to pay for all books ordered has been deposited with said county treasurer.

SEC. 5. County treasurers receiving funds for text-books under the provisions of this act shall remit the same on the first of each month to the comptroller, to be placed to the credit of the "text-book fund."

SEC. 6. That for the purpose of executing the provisions of this act the sum of three hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, which shall be deposited to the credit of the "text-book fund."

SEC. 7. The commissioners provided for in this act shall each execute and file a bond in the sum of twenty thousand dollars for the faithful performance of his duty, and shall each receive for his services an annual salary of two thousand dollars, and expenses not to exceed five hundred dollars.

SEC. 8. All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

SEC. 9. This act shall take effect immediately.

TO PROVIDE APPROVED, UNIFORM AND INEXPENSIVE TEXT-BOOKS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

THE following is the text of a bill presented March 24 into the Senate by Mr. Donald McNaughton, of Rochester, and on March 28 in the Assembly by Mr. Courtney, also of Rochester. The bill was read twice in the Senate, and once in the Assembly, and referred in the former to the Committee on Literature and in the latter to the Committee on Public Education:

AN ACT to secure approved, uniform, and inexpensive text-books for use in public schools, and to repeal certain acts.

SECTION 1. A State Board of School Text-books is hereby constituted and established, which shall be composed of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Secretary of the Regents of the University of the State of New York, the President of the State Society of School Superintendents, the President of the State Association of Teachers, and the Principal of the Albany Normal School.

SEC. 2. The State Superintendent of Public Instruction shall be president of said board, by virtue of his office. The board shall elect annually from among its own members or otherwise, a secretary of the board, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the board. Other officers may be chosen by the board at its discretion.

SEC. 3. The State Board of School Text-books shall establish rules regulating the transaction of its business and such other rules as it may deem necessary to carry into effect the provisions of this act.

SEC. 4. Four members of the board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

SEC. 5. The said board shall hold its first meeting at the capitol within thirty days after the passage of this act, at the call of the president. The board shall meet at least twice in each year. All meetings shall be held at such time and place as the president shall appoint.

SEC. 6. The secretary shall keep a record of the acts and proceedings of the board and perform such other duties as the board may require. He shall receive an annual salary of an amount to be determined by the board, which shall be paid him in the same manner as the salaries of other State officers are paid, and such necessary expenses shall be allowed him as the comptroller shall audit on the presentation of an itemized account having vouchers annexed, together with the certificate of the board.

SEC. 7. The actual travelling and other expenses of the members and officers of the board while engaged in their duties, shall be allowed and paid to them out of the appropriation made for that purpose. In addition thereto, there shall be allowed to each member, while in actual service of the board, the sum of ten dollars per day.

SEC. 8. Said board shall have the power and it shall be its duty to designate the text-books to be used in all the public schools of the State, and on and after the first day of September, eighteen hundred and ninety-one, no text-books shall be used in any public school except such as shall be designated by said board. The board shall have power to designate any book already published or to prepare or cause to be prepared by experts who shall be employed by the board for that purpose, text-books suitable for use in the public schools. The copyright to books so prepared shall belong to the State, and it shall be the duty of the board to protect such copyright from infringement. It shall be the duty of the board to contract with publishers to secure the supply to the public of the State text-books adopted by it, of good material and workmanship, and at the lowest price which can be secured. No book, the copyright to which shall not belong to the State, shall be adopted by the board unless the owner of the copyright shall grant, through contract with the board, to any other publisher, the privilege of competing for its production and supply to the public on payment of a royalty not to exceed ten per centum of the selling price of the book.

SEC. 9. An affirmative vote of at least four members of the board shall be required for either the adoption or change of a text-book, and no change shall be made in the use of any text-book adopted within four years after such adoption, except by a unanimous vote of the full board.

SEC. 10. It shall be the duty of the board on or about the first Monday of December in each year, to make a report in writing to the legislature of the State, containing a statement of the principal transactions of the board, a detailed statement of the comptroller of all money paid out by or on account of the board, and a detailed statement of the manner of its expenditure during the year last past.

SEC. 11. The sum of ten thousand dollars is hereby appropriated from the general fund for the purposes of this act, and the expenditures properly incurred by authority of said board and verified by affidavit, shall be paid by the treasurer upon the warrant of the comptroller.

SEC. 12. Chapter four hundred and twenty-seven of the laws of eighteen hundred and eighty-four and chapter four hundred and thirteen of the laws of eighteen hundred and seventy-seven, together with all acts and parts of acts inconsistent or in conflict with the provisions of this act, are hereby repealed.

SEC. 13. This act shall take effect immediately.

THE C. F. JEWETT PUB. CO. LOSES ITS PRESIDENT.

ON May 22 the discovery was made that Clarence F. Jewett, President of the C. F. Jewett Publishing Co., practically the subscription department of Estes & Lauriat, who had been missing for two weeks, would probably never again return to Boston. Investigation proved that Mr. Jewett had been guilty of overissuing stock, to what extent has not yet been divulged. It was reported at first that the overissue of stock amounted to about $75,000, but it is probably much less.

The capital stock is reported to be $75,000, of which Jewett owned one-half the shares (375) and Mr. Dana Estes, the Treasurer of the company, the remainder. Within a few weeks it has been learned that Mr. Jewett has issued a considerable amount of stock, signing not only his own name, but also—according to report—that of Mr. Estes. When this matter first became known to Mr. Estes he made inquiries, and Mr. Jewett, claiming to be ill, said he would go away for a few days, and he has not been seen since. The day after he left Boston, so it is said by one of his friends, he wrote to his brother stating that he was in financial straits, that he was a defaulter and would probably not return to Boston. The same person was authority for the statement that only a short time ago Mr. Jewett had a paper drawn by his lawyer, transferring his personal effects, furniture, art paintings, etc., to his wife, explaining that he did so to guard against her being left without ample means should anything turn up; but that later, under some pretence, he secured the papers and raised money by mortgaging all of the effects.

The firm of Estes & Lauriat make the following statement concerning the affair:

There is very little to add to the published report about the disappearance and irregularities of C. F. Jewett. The capital stock of the C. F. Jewett Publishing Company was $75,000, all issued when the company was organized, about four years ago. It turns out now that Jewett, who was President, has made large overissues of the stock to various persons, who will be losers. These transactions, we believe, are mostly of very recent date, nearly all of those which have come to our knowledge being within a month. Who these persons are we decline to state. The books of the corporation do not show their names, and those who have come to us for information have requested us to keep their confidence.

The corporation itself is not affected by this affair and is entirely solvent. It is hardly necessary to say that our concern is not financially affected, though we profoundly regret such conduct by a man in whom we had great confidence.

Mr. Jewett went to Boston from Claremont, N. H., where he was born. He was employed by James R. Osgood & Co., and when that firm went out of business two years ago he interested Estes & Lauriat in his publishing company scheme. The C. F. Jewett Publishing Company commenced business on September 1, 1886, in the rooms formerly occupied by Roberts Bros., over the bookstore of Estes & Lauriat on Washington Street in Boston. This new house was composed of Mr. Clarence F. Jewett and the two members of the firm of Estes & Lauriat. It was introduced as a firm commanding ample capital, and to be under the controlling direction of Mr. Jewett, who was known extensively as the proprietor of the coöperative system of writing history. This was first attempted in the "Memorial History of Boston," the plan of which originated with him. It was subsequently applied to the "Centennial History of the American Episcopal Church" and to the "Memorial History of Hartford County, Connecticut," which appeared about that time.

THE PRESBYTERIAN BOARD OF PUBLICATION INVESTIGATION.

AT the meeting of the General Assembly held at Saratoga, N. Y., May 20 to 27, the affairs of the Presbyterian Board of Publication came up for discussion. For some time the Board had been undergoing investigation, but few were prepared for the report presented by the committee appointed to look into the matter. The committee was composed of H. E. Simmons, formerly business manager of the American Tract Society, Thomas Kane, J. S. Crowell, and Wm. G. Johnston, and in its report charged generally an unbusinesslike administration of the affairs of the Board. To sum up the report briefly the committee found that "the Board is paying more than double for some of the work upon periodicals than it can be contracted for in the best offices in Philadelphia and elsewhere," that it paid prices for bound books very much in excess of that paid by regular publishing houses, and that its payments for copyright were "very much higher than are paid by similar Boards and Societies, in many cases more than double." Much in the report seems to be exaggerated.

After several hours' debate it was decided to refer the differences of opinion between the committee of experts appointed by last year's Assembly to investigate the business methods of the Presbyterian Board of Publication in Philadelphia and the Business Committee of that Board to a committee of seven to be appointed by the Moderator, which committee shall report to the next Assembly, but must publish its findings as soon as a decision is reached, and is empowered to immediately enforce such reforms as it may deem best in the Philadelphia offices.

THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY'S LATEST ADDITIONS.

THE AMERICAN BOOK COMPANY, although unable to induce Harper & Brothers to join its corporation, has nevertheless succeeded in making arrangements by which it comes into possession of all the books formerly published by Harper & Brothers intended for use in the public schools. This does not include any of the best books of other descriptions—those intended for college and university use—which the Harpers will retain and continue to publish as heretofore.

The American Book Company has also succeeded in obtaining control of the plant of The Standard Publishing Company of St. Louis, and of D. D. Merrill & Co. of St. Paul, which has a seventeen years' contract to supply school-books to the State of Minnesota.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY'S JUBILEE.

At the anniversary meeting of the American Baptist Publication Society, held at Chicago, May 21, the report showed the following encouraging results: The receipts in the book department of the Society during the year were $517,883.90. The total number of publications was 33,093,700, a gain of 2,273,850 over the preceding year. The number of copies of periodicals issued was 31,125,200, an increase of 2,147,651. The financial statement shows: Assets, $875,262.72; liabilities, $27,804.14; capital—net assets—$847,458.58. The Society is much more than self-supporting, although 132 colporteurs were supported, and 22,783 Bibles, 39,086 books, and 670,373 pages of tracts were distributed.

THE HATTON-LOVELL CONTROVERSY.

From the London Athenæum.

2, DEAN'S YARD, WESTMINSTER, May 13, 1890.

AN American, in these days following the defeat of the Copyright Bill, must approach any question touching the relations of English authors to America with a decent reluctance; but these days, humiliating as they are to Americans, are perhaps not the best season for recrimination, either. May I speak for Mr. Lovell, therefore, in reply to Mr. Joseph Hatton's singular statement in the last issue of the Athenæum, to the effect that his story "By Order of the Czar," was issued in Mr. Lovell's International Series without his authority or permission? Mr. Hatton has evidently forgotten the important circumstance that he several years since yielded to Messrs. Tillotson, of Bolton—presumably for a consideration—the right to sell for America the authorization which he complains has not been obtained from him. Mr. Lovell, as Mr. Hatton would have found if he had taken the pains to address Messrs. Tillotson before communicating with you, purchased from Messrs. Tillotson so long ago as 1888, for a substantial sum, the sole right to publish "By Order of the Czar" in the United States, as from the author. The obstacle encountered by Mr. Hatton's English publishers in selling this right in America is merely that properly encountered in the attempt to sell the same commodity twice. The unhappy difficulties which beset all dealings with America on the part of English writers are not cleared or bettered, one would say, by the habit of loose statement regarding the doings of American publishers, whose "game"—Mr. Hatton is persuaded to elegance by his theme—is by no means always one of "bluff." WOLCOTT BALESTIER.

THE NEW YORK POSTAL GUIDE.

THE first number of The New York Postal Guide, officially recognized by the postal authorities, has just made its appearance. It will be issued every three months, and is distributed free of charge to persons who apply at the post-office or any of the postal stations. Most of the information relating to postal matters has been contributed by Assistant-Postmaster Gayler. It includes the preparation of schedules of carriers, deliveries and collections, tables of distances and transit time to the principal cities in the United States and foreign countries, and tables of the time of the departure and expected arrival of mails within and from without the city, and much other important matter. An outline postal map, showing the boundaries of the delivery districts in New York City, is prefixed to the pamphlet. Mr. Gayler's careful work deserves great praise.

BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association of the United States, held on Wednesday evening, May 21, 1890, the following new members were elected:

Nic. Tengg, San Antonio, Texas; George B. Sherwood, New York City; Hiram Sherwood, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; Millard F. Cook, Brooklyn, N. Y.; William B. Fitts, New York City; Daniel S. Appleton, Jr., New York City; Oliver J. Sadlier, San Francisco, Cal.; Charles L. Bowman, New York City; George M. Angevine, New York City; Lewis H. O. Ryers, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The regular annual meeting of this Association will be held on Wednesday evening, June 4, 1890, in the Book Trade Sale Rooms of Geo. A. Leavitt, Broadway and Tenth St., New York. A large attendance is desired.

WILBUR B. KETCHAM, Secretary.

COMMUNICATIONS.

In re THE RECOLLECTIONS OF F. S. COZZENS: A CORRECTION.

NEW YORK, May 7, 1890.

To the Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

SIR: Referring to your notice of the "Recollections of the Late Frederick S. Cozzens," introduced by Mr. Randolph in the May Lippincott, I wish to make a correction of an error made by Mr. Cozzens, who states that Mr. Ivison, of the firm of Ivison & Pinney, married a daughter of J. Fenimore Cooper. Mr. Ivison was married twice, but neither time to Miss Cooper. His partner, the late H. I. Pinney, was the son-in-law of the novelist. I had the good fortune to attend Thackeray's lecture referred to with Irving, Putnam, and Cozzens. Mr. Irving told me that he considered Cozzens the very best of American humorists. I had recently published his "Sparrowgrass Papers," which had a large sale.

Yours respectfully,

J. C. DERBY.

OBITUARY.

FLETCHER HARPER.

FLETCHER HARPER, who had been for over twenty years a member of the firm of Harper & Brothers, died at his house in East Sixtieth Street, New York, May 22, in the sixty-second year of his age. For some years Mr. Harper has been suffering from a complication of disorders which baffled the skill of physicians. Gradually these difficulties developed into marasmus, and death was caused at last by a general consumption or wasting away. Last year Mr. Harper visited Aix-les-Bains, in the hopes of deriving benefit from the waters. He was seized last fall with a painful attack in Paris, the symptoms indicating the formation of a clot of blood in the vein of the left leg. He was immediately brought home, and since that time he has been growing steadily weaker. For forty-eight hours before his death he was unconscious.

Fletcher Harper was born in New York City October 7, 1828, and was the second son of Fletcher Harper, the youngest of the original members of the firm of Harper & Brothers, the first and the only other child being the late Joseph W. Harper, Consul-General of the United States at Munich. The younger Fletcher, who has been best known in New York as Fletcher Harper, "Junior," was born and passed his boyhood in New York, with the exception of a voyage to China before the mast, which he made at the age of sixteen. This was not exactly an escapade, but the result of a caprice, of which his father thought he would be more thoroughly cured by gratifying it than by thwarting it. The result approved the paternal wisdom, for the experience sufficed for the son. After finishing his Junior year at Columbia, and before entering upon his practical apprenticeship to the work of the house of which his father was a member, young Fletcher spent a year travelling in Europe with his parents. Soon after the founding of the New York Times his father bought an interest in the paper for him, and in April, 1853, the style of the proprietorship of the Times became "Raymond, Harper & Co." The copartnership lasted only for a year or so, when Mr. Harper's interest was transferred to the other owners. Mr. Fletcher Harper thereupon resumed his place in the house of Harper & Brothers.

He became a member of the firm in 1869, upon the death of Mr. James Harper, and for some time took special charge of the Harper periodicals. He had married, nearly twenty years before (in 1849), Miss Margaret C. Durbin, daughter of the Rev. John P. Durbin, D.D., then a well-known Methodist minister, and the issue of this marriage was one daughter, now Mrs. Hiram W. Sibley. Mrs. Harper, who died about four years ago, was a leader in charitable work, especially among working girls. By them she was almost worshipped for her thoughtful generosity, and long bore among them the title of "The Princess." She was instrumental in furnishing a number of seaside cottages, where poor girls were allowed to enjoy their vacation at a small price or free.

Mr. Harper was a man of great artistic and literary ability. He had also a marked taste for music, and was always a rare and congenial companion. Until of recent years, before the encroachments of the malady which caused his death, he was a man of splendid physique, tall square-shouldered, and of military bearing. His face was one of striking intelligence, strong of character, and gifted with that peculiar quality of "lighting up" on the moment at the perception of another's thought. His judgment in literary and artistic matters was much sought after and highly valued. He was a member of the Union League Club and of Kane Lodge of Masons. For twenty years or more he had held the Presidency of the Homoeopathic Insane Asylum of Middletown, N. Y., to which position he was first appointed by Gov. Dix.

Mr. Harper's connection with the firm of Harper & Brothers as an active member lasted not much more than twelve years, although his membership continued until it was terminated by his death. Soon after 1882 his health became feeble, and for several years he had been forced to abstain from active business, and had spent much of his time abroad.

Before the death of the first Fletcher Harper, in 1877, there was a Fletcher Harper in each of four generations of his branch of the family. Of these the youngest alone is now left, the great-grandson, although the venerable widow of the first Fletcher and the great-grandmother of the last survives in a green old age.

The funeral was held at the Madison Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, May 26, at 11 A.M. The Rev. Dr. McChesney, pastor of the church, officiated. He was assisted by the Rev. Dr. Jacob A. Shipman. The music was by the Mendelssohn Quartet of Brooklyn. The service was short, but impressive. With the exception of Joseph W. Harper, Jr., and W. A. Harper, who are in Europe, all the immediate family were present. These were: Mr. and Mrs. Hiram W. Sibley, of Rochester; Mr. and Mrs. Haight, Mr. Linde, Philip J. A. Harper, James Harper, John W. Harper, Joseph Henry Harper, John Harper, and J. A. Harper. The Kane Lodge of Masons, to which Mr. Harper belonged, attended in a body led by Rollin M. Morgan. Also members of the Union League Club and many employés of Harper & Bros. were present. The burial was at Woodlawn.

FUNERAL OF OLIVER BELL BUNCE.—The funeral services of Oliver Bell Bunce took place from his late residence, 350 West Twentieth Street, at 2 o'clock P. M., May 18, the Rev. Dr. Thomas Richey, of the General Theological Seminary, officiating. The services were according to the ritual of the Episcopal Church, and, at the request of the deceased man, were extremely simple and brief.

There were many lifelong friends of the deceased present. Among them were Mr. William H. Appleton, with most of the principal employés of the firm of D. Appleton & Co., as well as representatives of other publishing houses. There were also present Richard Henry Stoddard, Mrs. Barrow, William A. Townsend, Morris Phillips, Herman G. Carter, William F. Geisse, Dr. P. C. Cole, Anna Randall Diehl, E. C. Stedman, John Elderkin, Rossiter Johnson, Alfred Ayres, Junius Henri Browne, Prof. A. Berg, Mrs. Martha J. Lamb, James Dunn, Joseph B. Gilder, E. R. Pelton, G. W. Dillingham, G. W. Carleton, J. Henry Hagar, and many others.

At the conclusion of the brief service the body was taken to Greenwood, where the interment took place in the family plot.

HENRY B. DAWSON: AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY.

EDITED BY A. GROWOLL.

II.

IN 1865 Mr. Dawson published the "Diary of David How, a Private in Colonel Paul Dudley Sargent's Regiment of the Massachusetts Line, in the Army of the American Revolution. From the original Manuscript. With a Biographical Sketch of the Author, by George Wingate Chase, and Illustrative Notes, by Henry B. Dawson. Morrisania: 1865." This beautiful volume was published uniformly with the "Assault on Stony Point," the "Park and its Vicinity," and "Major-General Israel Putnam," already mentioned.

During the same year, 1865, he published a new edition of the celebrated "Recollections of the Jersey Prison-Ship by Captain Thomas Dring," which was originally published in Providence, Rhode Island, under the editorial supervision of the well-known scholar and poet, Albert G. Green. To that new edition he added a very elaborate appendix, extended notes, an index, two portraits, a map of the Wallabout in 1776-1783, plans of the decks of the old Jersey, and a picture of her as she lay at her moorings. The papers which were included in the appendix which he added to the work included previously unpublished correspondence and other papers of other prisoners on the old Jersey, as well as contemporary papers relating to the prisoners generally; a history of the old prison-ship; biographical sketches of prisons and others connected with the ship; several original papers, odes, etc.; the whole greatly enhancing the value of the original publication, and very largely increasing it in bulk. The title of that volume, a large octavo, elegantly printed by Alvord, was "Recollections of the Jersey Prison-Ship, from the original manuscripts of Captain Thomas Dring, one of the Prisoners. By Albert G. Green. Edited by Henry B. Dawson. Morrisania: 1865." The edition was confined to one hundred and fifty copies, of which fifty were on large paper.

At this time Mr. Dawson also edited and reprinted, in one of the most sumptuous quarto volumes which have ever left the American press, two letters which were written by William Graves, Esq., of the Inner Temple, for the purpose of defending his brother, Rear Admiral Graves, from the serious charges which were brought against him by the British Press, subsequent to the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, at Yorktown. This volume, which possesses unusual value as an historical authority, bears the title, "Two Letters Respecting the Conduct of Rear-Admiral Graves on the Coast of the United States, July to November, 1781. By William Graves, Esq., of the Inner Temple. Morrisania: 1865." The edition was only a hundred copies.

In the spring of 1865 he was invited to take the editorial charge of The Gazette, a Democratic weekly newspaper, published at Yonkers, in Westchester County; and, notwithstanding the great distance between his residence at Morrisania, and the office of The Gazette at Yonkers, he accepted the invitation, and entered upon the duties of his office with an ardor which gave a new character to the publication. The first number which was published under his management was that of May 6, 1865. The succeeding numbers, until very severe sickness compelled him to withdraw from the paper on the thirty-first of the following March, contained a vast mass of important historical material, with which the first page of each number was wholly occupied, many of the ablest historical papers and reviews of historical works which have proceeded from his pen having been originally published in its columns. The Gazette of that period became at once a recognized authority in American history; and it continues to be so among historical writers of the highest class. . . . The numbers of the paper of that period now command prices many times higher than those which they originally bore.

Early in 1866, before his connection with The Gazette was severed, he prepared for the columns of that paper, an elaborate article on the question of which particular flag of the United States was first raised over the Capitol of the Confederate States, after Richmond had been evacuated by the Confederate States' Army and occupied by that of the United States. That very extended article attracted so much attention in the army and among historical students and collectors, that it was reprinted by the Bradstreet Press in a beautiful little octavo volume designed for private circulation and bearing the title, "The Colors of the United States first Raised Over the Capitol of the Confederate States, April 3, 1865. Morrisania: 1866."

After he had retired from the editorial chair of The Gazette, he published four volumes containing as many distinct series of important historical papers, mostly from his own pen, which had been published in its columns, while he had been its editor. These volumes, which, with the running title of "The Gazette Series, edited by Henry B. Dawson, in four volumes, Yonkers, 1866," subsequently so famous among bibliophiles, were very beautifully printed on tinted laid paper with double rubricated titles, by the Bradstreet Press, and were originally intended for personal presents from himself to the several shareholders in the association by whom The Gazette was published and to the personal friends of their editor; but the great historical value of the papers which they contained, the beauty of their typography, and the very small number which were printed, produced so great a pressure to obtain copies by those who were not to receive them that a change was made in the order of distribution, some of the copies were withheld from those who had been designated to receive them, and six copies were offered to purchasers at one hundred dollars per set, at which price they were speedily sold. An order for one of these sets from the British Museum, received after all the six had been sold, Mr. Dawson was obliged to supply from the four copies which he had reserved for members of his own family. Long afterwards another of those reserved sets found a place in the library of a distinguished Western publisher, leaving only two copies in Mr. Dawson's own private library.

The first volume of that series, contains what "is probably the most perfect Andreana in print," entitled, "Papers Concerning the Capture and Detention of Major John André. Collected by Henry B. Dawson. Yonkers: 1866." The second volume of the series contains several of the earlier chapters of a history of the town and village of Yonkers, which he had commenced to write and to publish in The Gazette, but which were discontinued when his connection with that paper was broken. It is entitled, "Papers Concerning the Town and Village of Yonkers, Westchester County. A fragment. By Henry B. Dawson. Yonkers: 1866." The third volume of the series contains the celebrated discussion concerning the Eastern Boundary of New Jersey, which secured to New York, before the Circuit Court of the United States, her ancient and legal right of control over the waters of "the lower bay," below the Narrows, and is entitled, "Papers Concerning the Boundary between the States of New York and New Jersey, written by several hands. Yonkers: 1866"—"the several hands" having been General, John Cochrane, Attorney-General of New York; Hon. J. Romeyn Brodhead, the historian of New York and Secretary of the New York Historical Society, who wrote two papers; Hon. William A. Whitehead, the historian of Perth Amboy, etc., and Secretary of the New Jersey Historical Society; Mr. Dawson himself, who had unwillingly consented to act the part of an umpire between the original disputants; Mr. Whitehead in answer to Mr. Dawson; the latter in reply to Mr. Whitehead; the Attorney-General of New York, closing the argument, in the course of which he unreservedly gave the honor of the success, before the Court, to the papers of Mr. Dawson, and a "Postscript," by Mr. Dawson, concerning some portions of Mr. Whitehead's subsequent treatment of the subject. The fourth, and last, volume of the series contains the earlier chapters of a series of papers descriptive of notable spots within the county of Westchester, which he had commenced to write and publish in The Gazette, while his connection with that paper was continued. It is entitled "Rambles in Westchester County, New York. A fragment. By Henry B. Dawson. Yonkers: 1866."

During the same year, 1866, he reprinted, in fac-simile, an exceedingly rare tract, containing a report of a trial which had been had in August, 1786, in the Mayor's Court, in the city of New York, to test the question of the liability of those who had occupied properties in that city, which had been abandoned by their respective owners when the Royal army had occupied the city, during the War of the Revolution. It was maintained by those owners, after the city had been evacuated by the Royal troops, that those who had occupied those abandoned premises, and who had paid rents therefor to the "Vestry" which had been created by the Commanding General of the Royal Army to receive them, were, nevertheless, liable to the absent owners for rent of those premises for the entire periods of their adverse possession of them; and, to test that very grave question, an action was brought by Elizabeth Rutgers, the owner of a brewery in Maiden Lane, against Joshua Waddington, who had occupied it under the authority of the several Commanders-in-Chief, during her exile, and paid rent therefor, to the "Vestry." The great legal principles which were involved, the great sums which were at hazard, and the great array of distinguished counsel who were engaged, to say nothing of the great ability of the Court, have made that one of the great cases in the judicial history of the country; but in 1866, only one copy of the published report of that trial, the copy which was in his own library, was known to be in existence. A very elaborate historical and genealogical and legal "Introduction" was prepared by Mr. Dawson; and a new edition was printed in the most elegant style of the Bradstreet Press, in both large and small paper, the original pamphlet having been reproduced in perfect fac-simile, under the title of "The Case of Elizabeth Rutgers versus Joshua Waddington, determined in the Mayor's Court, in the City of New York, August 7, 1786, with an historical Introduction, by Henry B. Dawson. Morrisania: 1866."

A few weeks after his connection with The Gazette had been severed, he bought The Historical Magazine, a well-known monthly magazine, devoted to the antiquities, history, and biography of America. That work, which had been commenced in Boston, in January, 1857, under the able editorial control of John Ward Dean, had been removed to New York early in 1856, where it had been edited successively by Evert A. Duyckinck, George Folsom, John Gilmary Shea, and Doctor Henry R. Stiles, had already obtained a respectable standing in the periodical literature of the country; but the Civil War had necessarily withdrawn from it all of its subscribers who resided within the Southern States, including many of its abler contributors and more than one-half of the entire subscription-list; while of those whose names were on the books of the concern, nominally subscribers thereto, one-half, exactly one-half, had been non-paying recipients of the work, year after year, and appeared to regard themselves entitled to remain so.

The first number of The Historical Magazine, which was published by him was that of July, 1866; and in the following January, 1867, he commenced a "new series" of the work, giving double the number of pages in each number, and making two volumes per year, instead of the single volume which had been previously published. Into that work, he threw his entire strength and intellectual power, during several succeeding years; gathering around him, also, an array of distinguished voluntary "contributors" to its pages. The "book notices," sometimes exceeding a hundred in a single month, for which the magazine soon became famous among librarians and bibliophiles, were always written by himself. The effect of that peculiar editorial management was speedily seen in the increased influence of the magazine, as one of the highest historical authorities in the country; but, in the continued limitation of its support to the scholars in New England and New York—in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and the West, there were few who cared for it; and the South had not yet sufficiently recovered her strength to indulge in luxuries—it never paid the expense of its publication; and, after having published what was equal to thirteen complete volumes, the publication was suspended in April, 1876.

While Mr. Dawson was struggling to place The Historical Magazine on a paying basis, he was also employed in other literary ventures, some in connection with and auxiliary to that principal work, and some entirely disconnected from it.

In the autumn of 1866 he published a very valuable and very interesting little octavo volume elegantly printed by the Bradstreet Press, entitled "North American Rock-writing, and other Aboriginal Modes of Recording and Transmitting Thought. By Hon. Thomas Ewbank. Morrisania: 1866." About the same time he edited and published the official record of the "Trial of Joshua Het Smith, before a General Court Martial, for the part which he had taken in promoting the meeting, at his house, of General Benedict Arnold and Major John André, and in assisting the latter to effect his return to New York." As the original manuscript record of that historically important trial had been abstracted from the "Clinton Papers," of which it was a very valuable portion, after Mr. Dawson's copy had been made, some years previous to his use of it in The Historical Magazine and in this volume, that publication of it, carefully annotated, was a very acceptable service to every student of the history of that eventful period. The volume is a very beautiful octavo, printed in the finest style of the Bradstreet Press, and is entitled, "Record of the Trial of Joshua Het Smith, Esq., for alleged complicity in the Treason of Benedict Arnold, 1780. Edited by Henry B. Dawson. Morrisania: 1866."

During 1866 and 1867, he made a selection from the principal historical papers which had appeared in The Historical Magazine since he had become its editor, making five beautiful volumes, with the general title of "The Magazine Miscellany. Edited by Henry B. Dawson. Morrisania: 1866, 1867." An enumeration of the contents of these volumes cannot be attempted in this place; but it may be said that they included highly important historical papers by Lieutenant Colonel Backus, U. S. A.; Henry Laurens, President of the Continental Congress; Hon. Thomas Ewbank, LL.D.; George Henry Moore, LL.D.; Hon. Buckingham Smith; Hon. Charles Lanman; Hon. J. Romeyn Brodhead; Hon. Thomas C. Amory; Hon. William B. Reed; John Ward Dean; Hon. J. Hammond Trumbull, and others equally distinguished in the literature of American history.

In 1867 he received proposals for a revision of his "Battles of the United States, by Sea and Land," to be printed in the highest style of the typographic art in America, and to be sold by subscription. Every copy of the two limited editions, on large and on small paper, respectively, was promptly subscribed for, at very large prices; and premiums were paid for transfers of subscriptions. This was the most promising of all his authorial undertakings, and he entered on it with great hopes and high expectations. But the printers failed to fulfil their contracts with the subscribers and with him, and, after two parts had been published with the double title, "Battles of the United States, by Sea and Land. By Henry B. Dawson. Revised and completed edition. Volume I. Morrisania: 1867," and "Battles of the War of the Revolution, by Henry B. Dawson. Volume I. Morrisania: 1867," the work was necessarily suspended. A different reason for the suspension of the publication of this work was stated by Joseph Sabin, in his "Bibliography;" but there was not the slightest foundation for any portion of what he thus stated.

During the same year, 1867, Mr. Dawson obtained permission from the Common Council of the city of New York, to print the ancient records of the city, in which undertaking he engaged with great spirit. The existing records of the Orders and Proclamations of the Directors-General and Councils of New Netherland, which were the earlier forms of government of the city, from May, 1647, until February, 1653, when the local government by Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens was established, were all carefully copied, compared with the original manuscripts, and elaborately annotated, and printed. To these were added all the existing subsequent Orders and Proclamations, by Director-General Stuyvesant and the Colonial Council to October, 1655. The records of the proceedings of the Schout, Burgomasters, and Schepens, also, from the beginning, in February, 1653, until a later date, preceded by an elaborate introduction (into which he introduced, the first time it was published, the original charter of the city, that on which the existing charter is based), and accompanied by very voluminous and biographical notes. The volume in which all these are printed is entitled "Records of the City of New Amsterdam in New Netherland. Edited by Henry B. Dawson, and published by permission of the Common Council of the City of New York. Volume I. Morrisania: 1867."

Although that very commendable work was done and printed without the slightest expense to the city, and would have been similarly carried on and completed, the politicians of that day saw in the work, differently executed, an opportunity for a feast of plunder. [Dr. E. B. O'Callaghan], was brought from Albany; the assistance of some of the principal members of the New York Historical Society was secured for the promotion of the scheme; the notorious "New York Printing Company" and the equally notorious "Tweed Ring" were made partners in the enterprise. The "historian" was saddled on the city, with a salary of five thousand dollars per year, to edit the proposed work; the "Printing Company" was employed to stereotype it; and, year after year, the salary of the "editor," so called, was paid, and payment of the bills for stereotyping was regularly and abundantly drawn from the city treasury; but neither the city nor the world of historical literature has yet seen a single stereotype plate or a single printed page of that projected and expensively paid for "Records of the City of New York, edited by E. B. O'Callaghan, M.D., LL.D.,"* It was one of those gigantic swindles on the city for which Tweed and his associates suffered. . . . When that new element appeared, in the matter of the publication of the City's Records, all the hopes which the editor and publisher of what had already been printed, that his magazine might secure an enlarged circulation and that the sales of his collected volumes, as they should successively appear, would yield to him a reasonable profit, were entirely blasted; and he suspended his labors thereon, and never resumed them.

During the same year, 1867, Mr. Dawson edited and published three little volumes, on historical subjects, designed for private circulation, although some few copies of each were placed on the market, and sold at high prices. The first of these was entitled "President Joseph Reed, of Pennsylvania, a correspondence between Hon. William B. Reed and John C. Hamilton. Morrisania: 1867"—a peculiarly spicy little book, devoted to the ancient slanders against Joseph

* Mr. W. W. Pasko, in his "Old New York," v. 2, no. 4, p. 252, says of this work: "It is also proper to say that Dr. O'Callaghan prepared for publication, and stereotype plates were actually made of the whole of these annals, but no impressions were taken other than proof. This was during the time that Tweed was governing the city. The printing was not begun, in consequence of the exposure, and the printers could not recover pay for their work. Just at that time a fire broke out in the office of the New York Printing Company, which was another name for Tweed and his associates, and it was reported that the plates were destroyed. Some of our leading antiquaries, however, doubt this story, and say that under cover of this fire the plates were spirited away, and have ever since been held for a ransom. They cost the city in the neighborhood of fifty thousand dollars, including Dr. O'Callaghan's time, and could probably be obtained for five thousand." Mr. Pasko proposes to print a translation of these annals in his valuable magazine, "Old New York," a worthy successor, in a more limited field, of Dawson's Historical Magazine.—A. G.

Reed, now set at rest by the intelligent labors of Adjutant General Stryker, of New Jersey. The second was entitled, "General John Sullivan, a Vindication of His Character as a Soldier and a Man. By Thomas C. Army. Morrisania: 1867"—an admirable answer to aspersions on the General's character which had been published by Mr. Bancroft in his "History of the United States." The third was entitled "A Sermon Preached at Boston in New England upon a Fast Day, the xvijth of January, 1636. By Mr. John Wheelwright. From manuscripts in the possession of the Massachusetts Historical Society, first published in the Historical Magazine, for April, 1867. Morrisania, N. Y.: 1867"—that remarkable sermon, so celebrated in history, which led to the banishment of Anne Hutchinson, her brother-in-law (the preacher of this sermon), and a great number of others, residents of Boston and its vicinity.

"The Manual of the Common Council of the City of New York," published annually for many years, which had gained a high reputation under the editorial control of David T. Valentine, the popular clerk of that body, passed, in the year 1868, into the editorial care of Joseph Shannon, Mr. Valentine's successor, and his able deputy, Francis J. Twomey. It was proposed that the Manual for that year should be issued in an enlarged and improved form. Mr. Dawson was invited to furnish the historical portion of the work, which he did, adding some new features to that part of it. Besides a large number of other important previously unpublished or forgotten historical papers, ancient and modern, he furnished an elaborate paper on "The Battle of Harlem Heights, and the Death of Colonel Thomas Knolton, September 16, 1776;" also the venerable Charter of New York City, carefully copied and printed, the "proofs" of the printers being subjected to a critical collation with the ancient parchment, and their "revises" subjected to a similarly critical test.

Early in 1868 he published another of those dainty little volumes which had become so well known among scholars and collectors, and of which mention has been made. It was entitled, "The Origin of McFingal. By Hon. J. Hammond Trumbull, President of the Connecticut Historical Society. Morrisania: 1868," one of the cleverest little productions of that distinguished historian's pen.

Like all the members of his mother's family, the Bartons of Sempringham and Bicker, Mr. Dawson was, constitutionally, exceedingly delicate. During his childhood and youth and young manhood, until he left his father's house, to shift for himself, in 1838, his devoted mother watched over him, as such a mother only can watch over an only son. The same cautious and anxious care was continued by himself, after he had left his father's house, so that, notwithstanding his entire devotion to business, during business, and to study, when business did not demand his attention until the short hours of every morning, year after year, he enjoyed reasonably good health, except during three severe attacks of pleuro-pneumonia, until the summer of 1868, when the malaria produced by the opening of several new streets in the vicinity of his home prostrated him, with the ague and fever. In the severest form of that terrible disease, every second day during the entire summer and autumn months, this unwelcome visitor confined him to his house, prostrated in strength and spirits, and compelling him to conduct the magazine, editorially and financially, at the greatest disadvantage. He managed, however, during that eventful summer, besides the other duties of his editorial and business offices, to write and to publish that exceedingly elaborate paper, entitled "Bunker's Hill," which has, since then, become famous among the historical students of the country. It occupies one hundred and twenty-one closely printed small quarto pages, and is acknowledged to be the most elaborate and complete account of that remarkable action which has ever been printed, making it the highest authority on that very important and very much disputed subject.

With the assistance of his untiring and beloved friend, Rev. Doctor Gillett, the distinguished historian of the Presbyterian Church, during the same year, 1868, he also published another of his choice little volumes, the one entitled, "The Speech of Mr. John Checkley, upon His Trial at Boston, in 1724. With an Introduction by Rev. E. H. Gillett, D.D., of Harlem, N. Y. Morrisania: 1868," another of those expositions of the action of the ecclesiastical machine of orthodox New England, which he was always ready to publish to the world of historical and ecclesiastical literature.

In 1869, he wrote and published a very elaborate historical paper, occupying twenty-one closely printed small quarto pages, in which the several pretensions of Lexington, Westminster, the Alamance, and Boston, as the scenes of the first blood shed in the American Revolution, were successively examined and disproved, and the fact established that, as far as is now known, the first collision of the Royal forces with the Colonists, where resistance was made and blood shed in the American revolution, was in John Street, between Gold and Pearl Streets, then known as "Golden Hill," in the city of New York, on the nineteenth and twentieth of January, 1770. The paper entitled, "The First Blood Shed in the American Revolution: the Battle of Golden Hill," has been regarded as an authority of the highest order, by all who have written of the history of the American Revolution.

During the same year, 1869, probably during its earlier months, he published another of his little monographs, entitled "Historical Sketch of Lower Dublin (or Penepeh) Baptist Church, Philadelphia, Pa., with Notices of the Pastors, etc. By Horatio Gates Jones, of Philadelphia. Morrisania: 1869."

In January, 1870, he slipped on the ice, and was so severely injured by the fall, that he was confined to his bed for seven weeks, and to his house for a much longer period. By this accident he was made a cripple for life. During that long period his pen was almost wholly unemployed—indeed, the shock produced by that fall, operating on a physical system always delicate, which had been severely taxed by undue study, during so many years, and by business anxieties, was such, that from that day until his death he was an invalid, often entirely withdrawn from literary labors and, as much as possible, from business cares, although the meagreness of his means, so sadly impaired by the publication of the magazine, during that entire period, prevented that entire and absolute rest which was essential to his entire recovery.

During 1870, the Historical Magazine contained an elaborate paper which he had written in 1861, by the invitation of the Vermont Historical Society, on the battle of Bennington. Into that important paper he introduced new and previously unemployed material, largely brought from several archives in Germany. As no portion of that material had been previously employed in American historical literature, the paper attracted great attention among historical students. It was entitled "The Battle of Bennington." Written on the invitation of the Vermont Historical Society, and read before it, at Burlington, January 23, 1861, and, subsequently, at their request, before the New England Historic-Genealogical Society, at Boston, and the New York Historical Society, at New York."

(To be concluded.)

BUSINESS NOTES.

ATLANTA, GA.—H. C. Grubb, formerly H. C. Grubb & Co., and later Thornton & Grubb, is now in the book and stationery business for himself at 38 South Broad Street, near Alabama Street.

BESSEMER, ALA.—A. A. Preston has sold out his stock of books, stationery, etc.

BIG STONE GAP, VA.—A. E. Spalding, for nine years connected with the Independent Company, of Massillon, Ohio, has started in business here as bookseller, stationer, and newsdealer.

EASTON, PA.—J. H. Lindemann's book and stationery store on Northampton Street, above Fourth, was closed last evening by the sheriff, and will be sold by him on Tuesday next. The execution was issued at the instance of Mr. Lindemann's father, Wm. H. Lindemann, who holds a claim for $2976.76.—Easton Argus.

ELLSWORTH, ILL.—C. L. Shinkle, Ellsworth, Ill., has purchased Fisher Bros.' bookstore, and will take possession June 1.

LEAVENWORTH, KANSAS.—E. J. Morgan, bookseller, has sold out.

NORTHAMPTON, MASS.—A. G. Carley, stationer and bookseller, of Northampton, Mass., is reported to have assigned with liabilities of some $14,000, merchandise creditors to the amount of $3000 included.

ORLANDO, FLA.—Curtis, Fletcher & O'Neal, booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Curtis & O'Neal.

PITTSBURG, PA.—H. W. Watts & Co., booksellers and stationers, have sold out to J. R. Weldin & Co.

PORTLAND, OREGON.—Wheeler & Raymond, booksellers and stationers, have been succeeded by Stuart & Thompson. The new firm is composed of E. C. Stuart, formerly with "The Skeen & Stuart Stationery Co. of Chicago," and J. L. Thompson, lately with S. A. Maxwell & Co., also of Chicago.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—John C. McConnell has resigned the agency of the American Tract Soc., and has bought out the book and stationery business of Brier & Co., at 757 Montgomery Street.

WAUKESHA, WIS.—Ira M. White, bookseller and stationer, has been succeeded by White & Nelson.

PERSONAL NOTES.

WE regret to learn that Mr. G. E. Brett, who established the agency of Macmillan & Co. in this country, and who has managed it with great success for upwards of twenty years, has resigned his position. This step became necessary on account of the serious illness from which Mr. Brett has been suffering for the past few months, and from which, we are sorry to learn, the doctors do not hold out a hope of speedy recovery. His presence will be missed by all who were permitted to become better acquainted with this genial gentleman, who had always a kind word of encouragement and sympathy for the younger men in the trade. We trust he will recover more speedily than is hoped, and be able for many years to enjoy the rest he has so richly earned. Macmillan & Co. have very properly appointed Mr. G. P. Brett the successor of his father. Mr. Brett, Jr., who has been connected with the house for a number of years, and who has represented it on the road, is personally known to a large portion of the trade as an intelligent and enterprising bookseller. We bespeak for him the confidence and respect his father has enjoyed through all these years as manager of so notable a part of a world-renowned house as the American branch of Macmillan & Co.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

THE report that Idlewild, the home of N. P. Willis, is to be converted into a private asylum for insane, is unfounded.

W. H. ANDERSON, 222 East Broad Street, Richmond, Va., is preparing a book of negro authors, with an account of their lives and writings.

"RIDER HAGGARD," says the London correspondent of the N. Y. Sun, "has just sent his new book to the press. It is called 'Eric,' and is a Scandinavian romance of the bloodiest description, with but few survivors in the last chapters."

W. D. HOWELLS has made arrangements to write a serial for the New York Sun and a syndicate of newspapers in England and Australia. The Sun has also made arrangements for a novel by George Meredith and for Mr. R. L. Stevenson's "South Sea Letters."

WILLIAM WALDORF ASTOR has employed artists at an expense of something like $10,000 to illustrate one copy of each of his novels. These copies form a private édition de luxe, each one being labelled "my personal copy" and occupying a prominent place in his library.

ST. GEORGE MIVART has in press a "Monograph on the Canidae." It will be issued to a limited number of subscribers, illustrated with woodcuts and nearly fifty colored plates drawn from nature and hand painted by J. G. Keulemans. In the part that relates to dogs, jackals, wolves, and foxes, the domestic dog is not overlooked. The question of his origin is considered.

THE committee who has in charge the erection of a monument to the memory of the late Rev. E. P. Roe is now negotiating with S. B. Young for a desirable site on a high bluff situated on the side of Round Top, which faces the Boulevard and is directly back of the late home of the deceased. Beneath this bluff is situated a tract of three acres, which the committee thinks would make a lovely park, and it is possible Mrs. Roe may donate it for that purpose. A survey and map of the site has been made.

OF the reminiscences of James Berry, the English public executioner, the Pall Mall Gazette, remarks: "The book is now all but finished. There are nine chapters in it, and in three the writer has sketched his wheel of life plainly. The first tells the story of how he became an executioner. The second relates his first practical experience. The next deals with the apparatus and has some pictures in it; this is followed by a terrible chronicle—'Men and Women I Have Executed.' Then Mr. Berry discusses his treatment by the public and tells how murderers die. He then relates some travelling experiences and gives his impression upon capital punishment. The ninth and last chapter in the book is of some interest, for in it Mr. Berry describes 'celebrities I have met.' A large sale is expected for this 'shilling dreadful.' The first edition will consist of 50,000 copies.

MR. R. H. STODDARD OBJECTS.—Mr. R. H. Stoddard, as the following letter to Mr. E. W. Bok would indicate, has run to the end of his patience string in being continually represented as old, feeble, blind, and decrepit:

MY DEAR MR. BOK: I would like to have my little say about a certain man or woman (I know not) who is continually writing me up as if I were at the brink of the grave. Recently this person has become so garrulous that I think it is time somebody else should have something to say. This last report makes me out first as being so blind that I "require the assistance of some one in going from place to place." This is not so. It is true that my sight has not been so good since the removal of a cataract on one of my eyes as before, but this person exaggerates and lies most shamefully. Then I am made out as being thin, with stooping shoulders, and my clothes ill-fitting me, shuffling along the streets like a fool. All this is rubbish, pure and simple. Then, I throw vitriolic eloquence at any literary beginner who writes to me. Bah! I get one hundred such effusions in a week! Don't get ten. My wife and I give Sunday receptions! We don't. I am always seen at the theatres on first nights. Never was or will be a "first-nighter." Books are piled up all over the house from the basement up! Our house has no basement. These books were picked up abroad! Never been abroad; don't want to go.

All this stuff is getting tiresome to me. Whatever interest the public may have in my welfare, I wish they would disbelieve all these stories. They are trying to my family, my friends, and to

Yours sincerely,
RICHARD HENRY STODDARD.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have just published "A Japanese Boy, by Himself."

THE MINERVA PUBLISHING CO. have recently published a novel called "Married by Proxy," by Frank Dupree, a newspaper man of New York City.

D. C. HEATH & Co. have in press "Selections from Heine's Poems," edited with notes, by Horatio Stevens White, Professor of the German Language and Literature in Cornell University.

THE D. LOTHROP COMPANY have in preparation a list of new holiday books far surpassing those of previous years both in number and attractiveness. Samples of nearly all will be ready shortly.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at an early date the second volume of H. Morse Stephen's "History of the French Revolution," which continues the story onward from the Legislative Assembly of 1791.

THE employes of Harper & Brothers gave their third annual reception on the evening of May 29 at the Harlem River Park and Casino, N. Y. The occasion was well attended and a pleasant evening provided by the committee.

E. & J. B. YOUNG & Co. have nearly ready a new and cheap edition of "Lux Mundi," a series of studies in the religion of the Incarnation, edited by the Rev. Charles Gore, which has been well received by those having authority in literature and theology.

STREET & SMITH have just ready "Doctor Jack," a highly dramatic modern story of an American's adventures in Spain and Oriental Turkey, by St. George Rathborne; and "At a Girl's Mercy," a romance of the War of the Rebellion, by Jean Kate Ludlum.

CHARLES L. WOODWARD, 78 Nassau St., N. Y., has just ready the first volume of a work by R. S. Guernsey, entitled "New York City and Vicinity during the War of 1812-15." The first volume covers the first two years of the war—from March, 1812, to January, 1814. The edition is limited.

ESTES & LAURIAT have in preparation a holiday edition of George Eliot's "Romola." It will be in two volumes and be illustrated with photo-etchings of Florentine scenes made from photographs selected on the spot. They will also make an édition de luxe of this volume, limited to 250 numbered sets, with plates on imperial Japan paper, and bound in full vellum.

THE CENTURY CO. have just ready in book-form Frank Stockton's latest story, "The Merry Chanter," which tale of early married love on a schooner has been a delightful serial in The Century Magazine from November to March. It is illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson, and makes a handsome volume of a most original piece of fiction.

The Courier des Etats-Unis has published a useful book for French immigrants entitled "Guide Franco-Américain." It has been prepared by M. J. Roussel, of the Courier, and furnishes the traveller and prospective citizen with valuable information of every kind. The book contains a map and a number of illustrations, many of which have been specially made for this work by Aug. Leroy.

"THE FOREST AND STREAM," PUB. CO. will publish at once a timely volume, entitled "With Fly, Rod, and Camera," by Edward A. Samuels, the well-known salmon angler and amateur photographer, of Boston. The book contains 150 full-page reproductions of striking photographs, to the collection of which Mr. Samuels has devoted the vacations of several years on the picturesque salmon rivers of Canada.

THE CASSELL PUBLISHING CO. will publish at once "Scouting for Stanley in East Africa," by Thomas Stevens, of bicycle fame, who was sent to Africa by the New York World, to find Stanley, and who, in spite of many obstacles and great opposition on the part of German Government officials, successfully accomplished his object. The book is to be profusely illustrated, and will contain a portrait of the author.

FLEMING H. REVELL, New York and Chicago, has made arrangements with the Committee of the Religious Tract Society of London to become their sole agent in the United States. Mr. Revell will at once make extensive efforts to bring the long list of the Society's books, magazines, and other publications under the notice of the American trade, and he will be able to offer the same at better terms than they have heretofore been obtainable.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS have just ready "Five Years with the Congo Cannibals," by Herbert Ward. A record of adventures with primitive savages, full of the most thrilling scenes and dangers. Mr. Ward's travels in Africa commenced in 1884, when he received an appointment in the service of the Congo Free State. He was a member of the Stanley Relief Expedition, and made his memorable canoe journey of eleven hundred miles on the Congo in the service of Stanley. The book is fully illustrated after drawings made on the spot by the author.

PROFESSOR ELY'S "Political Economy," published by Hunt & Eaton, is about to be translated into Japanese by Professor Sato, Director of Sapporo Agricultural College in Japan. This Chautauqua book, which is being used as a textbook in many of our colleges, has already acquired an international fame. It has been discussed extensively by the German press, has been commended in Italy, and Professor Emile de Lavaleye, of Belgium, says of it: "It is, I think, the best elementary, economic treatise which I have read. How clear and simple it all is." It is now in the twenty-ninth thousand.

WELCH, FRACKER COMPANY, 37 Great Jones Street, New York, will soon publish "The River-sons," a novel of Pennsylvania life in the forties, by S. J. Bumstead; "One of 'Berrian's' Novels," by Mrs. C. H. Stone, a story of the twentieth century; "The Bank Tragedy," a novel by Mary R. P. Hatch; "From Yellowstone Park to Alaska" and "From the Land of the Midnight Sun to the Volga," both by Francis C. Sessions, President of the Ohio Historical Society. These latter volumes will be uniform with Mr. Sessions' two lately published books of travel, "On the Wing Through Europe," and "In Western Levant."

HUNT & EATON announce for publication during the summer months "An Outline History of England," by James Richard Jay; "From Chaucer to Tennyson," by H. A. Beers; a revised edition of "Walks and Talks in the Geological Field," by Dr. A. Winchell; "Eschatology, or, the doctrine of the last things," by F. G. Hibbard; "Philosophy of Christian Experience," by Bishop A. S. Foster; "The Law of the Lord," by Bishop J. P. Newman; "Epworth League Work," by J. Emory Price; "A Little Leaven," a book for deaconesses, by Elizabeth C. Holding; "The Atheist Shoemaker," by Hugh Price Hughes; "One Little Life," by Mrs. Mary L. Dickenson; and a revised edition of "French Literature," by W. C. Wilkinson.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have in press a volume by Mrs. William B. Claflin, wife of ex-Governor Claflin, of Massachusetts, entitled "Brampton Sketches," descriptive of New England life over fifty years ago; "Gold Nails to Hang Memories On: a Rhyming Review under their Christian Names of Old Acquaintances in History, Literature, and Friendship," by Elizabeth A. Allen, an ingenious design for memorizing names and principal characteristics of distinguished men; also two new books by the versatile and busy Sarah K. Bolton—both biographical—entitled "European Artists" and "English Authors of the Nineteenth Century." Mrs. Bolton's best-known book, "Girls Who Became Famous," has just been translated in part into the Japanese language.

LEE & SHEPARD have just published "Brushes and Chisels," a story of artist life in Rome, by Theodore Serrao; "Heroes and Martyrs of Invention," an interesting volume for boys, by George Makepeace Towle; "Stories of the Civil War," by Albert F. Blaisdell, admirably adapted for use in schools; "The Elements of Psychology," by Gabriel Compayre, translated by Wm. H. Payne, of the University of Nashville, Tenn.; "The Taking of Louisburg," by Samuel Adams Drake, forming the second volume of the series of Decisive Events in American History. They announce "The Blind Man and the Devil," an allegory, in which some features of the labor question are exemplified; "Luncheon and Tea Breads," by Miss L. G. Sweet, containing choice recipes; also "The Landing of the Pilgrims," "Gold in California," and "The Battle of Gettysburg," in S. A. Drake's series of Decisive Events in American History.

IN the contemplated new uniform edition of the works of Mr. F. C. Burnand, "Very Much Abroad" will be the first volume. It will be amply illustrated.

SWAN SONNENSCHNEIN & Co. announce a new edition of "Samuel Pepys' Diary," in four octavo volumes, printed in the best manner from new founts of type. The text selected is the 1848 (third) edition by Lord Braybrooke, the whole of whose notes and biography will be revised and included in this edition. The first two volumes will be ready almost immediately.

WE learn from the London Athenaeum "that of the last work of the lamented Mr. Blades, his 'Bibliographical Miscellanies,' the remaining essays are almost entirely finished and ready for publishing, especially the one on 'Chained Libraries.' It may be of interest to many if we add that Mr. Blades had a medal struck for his trade jubilee, which would have been celebrated on May 1, but unfortunately he did not live to see that day. It is supposed he intended presenting it to his numerous printing and literary friends."

GEORGE ALLEN, Mr. Ruskin's publisher, has in press a work by Edward T. Cook, editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, entitled "Studies in Ruskin." The first part will expound "the gospel according to Ruskin," applying his principles of art to practical life; the second part will describe some aspects of his work—at Oxford and the drawing school he founded there, at the Working Men's College, in connection with the St. George's Guild, May Queens, and various industrial experiments—with a special chapter on his relations with the booksellers. In an Appendix will be given notes on Mr. Ruskin's Oxford lectures in 1877 and 1884. The volume will contain twelve woodcuts, including Sir J. E. Boehm's portrait-bust. There will also be a large-paper edition, extra illustrated with fifteen autotypes of original drawings by Mr. Ruskin, presented by him to the Drawing School at Oxford, and now reproduced for the first time.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers only are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address (in any issue except special numbers), to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents per line, and amount should be enclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents per line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

Under the heading "Situations Wanted," subscribers are entitled to one free insertion of five lines. For repeated matter and advertisements of non-subscribers the charge is 10 cents per line.

All other small advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents per line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

Parties desiring to receive answers to their advertisements through this office must either call for them or enclose postage stamps with their orders for the insertion of such advertisements. In all cases we must have the full address of advertisers as a guarantee of good faith.

Cooper Union, Fourth Ave., N. Y.

EVERYBODY, in this world, wants the best of everything. All well and good. Human nature is pr  t  y apt to be right in its tendencies. Only these need direction. This passion for the best is no exception, because the best of many things is not, taken by itself, worth the labor of the getting. Life may be, and often is, frittered away in the quest of it—the best dress, the best dinner, the best carriage, the best furniture, the best reception of the season, the best bank account.

It seems, then, that the all-essential thing is not so much to get the best, as the best of the best.

The gaudiest sunflower is not, by any means, a rose, nor the prize pumpkin a peach, and it makes all the difference in the world with the aroma and savor of life, you may be sure of it, whether it is given up to coveting its choicest peaches and roses or its pumpkins and sunflowers.

Money may do its best to get the best and yet fail to get anything that makes for the best in life. Whatever helps us to love larger loves, to live larger lives, to enjoy larger joys—this is the best of the best.

There are many other things that give this aid, but no one thing perhaps that does more than books, the best books, and this means the records of the best that has been thought and said and done in the world.

For over a score of years the D. Lothrop Company have been bringing out these books, always preferring — other things being equal — American books, on the principle that the best reading for Americans is that which is instinct with the true American spirit.

They are thus doing the very thing that Henry Cabot Lodge, in a recent speech, said Congress ought to do, namely, “furnishing to the reading public, to the boys and girls, to the young men and women of an impressionable age, books which are American books, not foreign books, not the cheap books of France, dedicated as Matthew Arnold has said, ‘to the Goddess of Lubricity,’ not the second class of English novels about dukes and duchesses and lords and ladies, not books which contain ideas hostile to our institutions, but American books that will breathe American ideas and teach them to respect and admire American government and society, and not a system of government and society wholly alien to them.”

This firm have now in preparation the finest line of Holiday Books ever made in any country. Having at last no resource left but to eclipse themselves, they propose to do that, even if they have to make double the usual outlay of labor and money to do it.

In richness and variety and interest, in every quality, in short, that makes books desirable, the issues of 1890 will be nearer perfection than ever before, and that — all book-lovers know it — coming from the D. Lothrop Company, means a great deal.

THE BEST KEY TO EDUCATIONAL BOOKS.

Imprint edition—without publishers' advertisements.

THE American Educational Catalogue For 1890 [Twenty-first Year].

THE AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE, whose value to the trade is proved by the fact that it is now in its twenty-first year, claims to be the best practical aid to the dealer in or buyer of school-books.

With its alphabetical arrangement by authors, its separate class-index, carefully sub-classified to an extent not followed by any other catalogue, its completeness and accuracy, it is presented as the best finding-list, the most convenient order-list, and the most satisfactory class-catalogue for school use.

The catalogue has recently been remade, to omit books which have dropped out of use and to include all live books, and it adds all new books (ready or to be ready for the fall) in their proper alphabetical place.

The page giving the key to publishers will not be given in imprint editions unless specially ordered. The Telegraphic Code will not be continued, as the code plan is reported to us to give more trouble than it saves.

This Catalogue is specially planned to be of service for circulation by retailers among schools and private buyers. The imprint edition possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5.00 ; per 1000, $40.00.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that page, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5.00, or $1.00 if plate is sent.

* * * Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1.00, postpaid.

NEW YORK.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

THE COMMITTEE OF
The Religious Tract Society
(LONDON),

having determined upon opening in the United States a depository for their varied publications, have pleasure in announcing that they have appointed their sole Agent, and solicit from "The Trade" a kindly examination of their catalogue and a share of their patronage.

Mr. Fleming H. Revell

Owing to a somewhat conservative policy on the part of this Society in the past, their publications have not been presented to the American public, except to a very limited extent, but in literary worth and attractive manner of production they stand second to none.

THE PUBLICATIONS OF THE SOCIETY INCLUDE:

Elegant Illustrated Gift-Books.

Valuable Works on Science and Travel.

Practical Theological and Devotional Works.

Inspiring Missionary and Biographical Publications.

Standard Biblical and Reference Volumes.

Healthy Fiction.

Popular Juveniles.

Successful Periodicals, comprising

THE BOYS' OWN PAPER.

THE GIRLS' OWN PAPER.

THE SUNDAY AT HOME.

THE LEISURE HOUR, and others.

Our travellers will have pleasure in calling on "The Trade" at an early date, with full sample lines of the above important publications, and offer attractive low prices. We bespeak for them a kindly reception.

OF

YOUNG PEOPLE.

IN PREPARATION.

The Lion City of Africa. By WILLIS BOYD ALLEN. Illustrated by Bridgman and others. 8vo, cloth, $2.50.

The marvellous adventures of two young men marooned on the coast of Africa. The story combines the imaginative charm of Rider Haggard with the probability of one of Stanley's recitals.

An Adirondack Cabin. A story of life in the Great Wilderness. By MARGARET SIDNEY. 75 illustrations, including over 30 original full-page pictures of scenes in the Adirondacks. 4to, cloth, $2.25; boards, $1.75.

The latest of Margaret Sidney's inimitable stories for young people. A book brimful of frolic and adventure, of camp life in the Adirondack forests. The author has not, still the book holds for him an absorbing interest.

Round the World with the Blue Jackets. By Lieut. H. E. RHODES, U.S.A. Original illustrations by Bridgman and others. 4to, cloth, $2.25; boards, $1.75.

A vivid, varied, undeviating narrative of a voyage taken just after the war by the good ship Iroquois, for the purpose of showing the triumphant "Stars and Stripes" to the world. Instinct with the realism which only personal experience can give. These dashing "Blue Jackets" do have some "jolly good times."

Dollikins and the Miser. By FRANCES EATON, author of "A Queer Little Princess." Illustrated by W. L. Taylor. 4to, cloth, $1.50.

A resolute little maid takes a miser for "her mission." To the surprise of everybody she succeeds in revivifying his shrivelled old heart. A portion of this story appeared originally as a $750 prize serial in the Youth's Companion. It deserves to be one of the most popular juveniles of the coming holiday season.

Little He and She. By GRACE DENIO LITCHFIELD. 4to, cloth, $1.50.

Little hearts that love bring together old hearts that are estranged. A beautiful story of two healthy, charming, thoroughly natural children. Every boy and girl should read it.

How New England Was Made. By FRANCES A. HUMPHREY. Fully illustrated. 4to, cloth, $1.50; boards, $1.25.

A child's history of New England up to the beginning of the Revolution. It differs from most New England histories in that it succeeds in making very real the home-life of our sturdy forefathers.

The Young Folks' Golden Treasury of Poems. New edition. Illustrated with 300 engravings from original designs. Cloth, $2.25.

From three to four hundred selected poems from the best English and American poets. It will make the young people like poetry.

Uniform with the above :

THE YOUNG FOLKS' GOLDEN TREASURY OF HISTORY, and

THE YOUNG FOLKS' GOLDEN TREASURY OF TRAVEL AND ADVENTURE.

The three volumes form a complete library of prose and poetry. 4to, cloth, gilt edge, $2.75; cloth, $2.25, per vol.

Animal Stories. Cover in imitation of white satin from a French design. 4to, $1.

Exciting encounters with wild animals; also instances of the intelligence and fidelity of the pets of the household.

A Tale of Three Lions. By H. RIDER HAGGARD. With other thrilling stories by other authors. 4to, fully illustrated, 50 cents.

Allan Quatermain, the hero of "King Solomon's Mines," re-appears as a gold-miner and buffalo-hunter in the Transvaal, South Africa. The author never did a stronger piece of work than the description of the fight of the two lions, black mane and yellow mane, in this story.

Wonders from Sea and Shore. By FANNIE A. DEANE. 4to, boards, $1.25.

A first book in Natural History. Little talks about plants, insects, birds, and fishes; tiny folks in armor and how they fight; tiny folks in red and black—how they make their toilet, build their houses, keep cows, and carry parasols.

TWO EXQUISITE NEW COLOR BOOKS.

Rhymes for Little Readers. Illustrated with twelve monotypes and twelve colored plates from original water-color designs, by A. W. ADAMS. Text in brown ink. Oblong quarto, $1.00.

Little Boy Blue, and Willy Boy, and Tommy Tucker, and Mistress Mary in a new and charming environment. Nowhere is recent art development more noticeable than in children's books, and few of these have reached so high a pitch of excellence as this.

Ballad of the Lost Hare. By MARGARET SIDNEY. Full page illustrations printed in sepia. Oblong 4to, 50 cents.

A naughty little hare ran away one day and never came back again. His adventures are all interesting, some thrilling, some amusing. The accompanying pictures are a veritable gallery of delights.

Wide Awake DD. Cloth, $2.00; boards, $1.50.

No young photographer can afford to go without Alexander Black's "Confessions" and their highly suggestive illustrations. All the young folks will be delighted with "Bony and Ban," by MARY HARTWELL CATHERWOOD, and that jolliest of boys' stories, "Gid Granger," by WM. O. STODDARD.

The Pansy for 1890. Boards, $1.25; cloth, $1.75.

Besides the usual entertaining miscellaneous matter, this volume contains two complete books by PANSY, and one by MARGARET SIDNEY.

Our Little Men and Women for 1890. Boards, $1.25; cloth, $1.75.

It aims to get the little people interested in the wonders of the world they live in, and it does it. 75 full-page pictures and hundreds of smaller ones.

Babyland for 1890. With colored frontispiece. Cloth, $1.00; boards, 75 cents.

Bright stories, odd conceits, sparkling jingles, to make the baby laugh and learn together. Polly Pry and Toddlekens is a baby serial in twelve chapters.

Baby's Annual for 1891. Colored pictures and illustrations in black and white. Boards, $1.25.

A book of jolly good times for the very little people—quite enough to last them the whole year round.

Shouts and hand clappings will be the accompaniment of every story and rhyme.

Many other new quartos for the children and young people, are also nearly ready, varying in price from 5 cents to $2.50 each. Larger and handsomer for the price than ever before. Dealers should send early orders. An announcement of gift-books for adults in preparation by will be given in a later issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, BOSTON,

The American Book Company is a Stock Company incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey for the purpose of carrying on the manufacture and sale of books.

Its places of business are at Nos. 806 and 808 Broadway, New York, 137 Walnut Street, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Nos. 258 and 260 Wabash Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

The American Book Company has purchased the school-book publications hitherto issued by D. Appleton & Co., A. S. Barnes & Co., and Ivison, Blakeman & Co., of New York; and of Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co., of Cincinnati. The Company will faithfully carry out all contracts entered into by these respective firms for the publication and supply of these books. The Text-books which have thus been acquired by The American Book Company have been intimately associated with the history of educational progress of this country for over half a century, and the Company will devote its best efforts to sustain the great reputation these lists have achieved. To this end it will seek the aid and coöperation of educators and authors in maintaining the quality and accuracy of its publications, and in the preparation of such new and original books as the progressive demands of the schools shall warrant.

The Company is organized in the interest of a reasonable economy in the production and sale of school-books and it will employ its capital, its combined labor and experience to produce books of the highest quality at the least cost and will offer them at the lowest price at which similar books can be sold in any country. It will pursue an open, direct, business policy towards competitors, customers, authors, and patrons. It seeks no monopoly and invites an open and honorable competition, with respect both to quality and to price of books for use in schools.

The publications assumed by the Company have hitherto received a large share of public patronage. The Company hopes to merit a continuance of the same.
